First Showing of New 1910 Styles In Men's Suits and Cravenettes

We announce that, commencing with Saturday of this week, we will display for the first time in the west, the new styles, fabrics and patterns for 1910.

These garments have just been received from our own makers in the Eastern Fashion Centers and are of the same high standard as those upon which we have built our reputation for quality.

They embody the very latest designs, the newest weaves, the most recent colors and the fashionable patterns for the coming season, and are shown in such a large variety and at such a wide price range that every individual taste may be suited whether it be for the conservative, the extreme, or the medium styles.

This showing will be doubly appreciated by up-to-date dressers, who would rather buy a new 1910 garment—that is a suitable weight for now—than the last season's styles still shown in most stores.

Don't YOU think that YOU'D rather have a NEW, FRESH, UP-TO-THE-MINUTE, 1910 garment, than a last season's style, even at half-price?

Then we'll expect the pleasure of showing you.

Street Car Company Loses Case—A jury in district court has returned a verdict of $26 in a suit brought by Nelsa Blakeley against the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company. Blakeley sued for $25.00.

Women Tired of Their Husbands—Elizabeth Vick has secured a decree of divorce in district court from Frank Vick for drunkenness. Mrs. Rose Carrington Tomlinson is suing Robert L. Tomlinson for divorce on the ground of desertion.

Paroled Because of His Age—Charles Christopher Kelly, a South Omaha man, signed his employer's name to a check, has been paroled by Judge Sutton in district court because Kelly is more than 60 years of age and this offense is his first. Kelly is paroled to John Weather, a painter, who will give the man work.

Rockafellow's Death Accidental—That J. G. Rockafellow, who was found dead in the basement of his home, 2555 St. Mary's avenue, Friday morning, died from gas poisoning, through an accident, was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury Friday afternoon.

Dance in Honor of Miss Stafford—The young women of the business office of The Bee will give a dance this evening at the German Home in honor of Miss Mattie Stafford, who is to be married February 14 to Charles Davies. The party will comprise about twenty-five couples.

They Have the Tool Thief—In the arrest of Ed Schroeder by sergeant Dempsey the police believe they have discovered the perpetrator of the series of thefts of workmen's tools in the city during the month. Schroeder was attempting to dispose of a bunch of tools when the sergeant came on the scene and took him to the station.

Story of Brookmont Farm—The story of a great Iowa farm, "Brookmont," told in a booklet exquisitely illustrated by photographs of sweeping stretches of rural landscape, has been issued by the Payne Investment company. The photographic work is that of Louis R. Bostwick of Omaha. The booklet is a masterpiece of the work of the country. It is highly tasteful and elegant.

Beginning on Thomas Building—Preparations are being made to begin work at once on the new Thomas building on the northeast corner of Seventeenth and Harney streets. Workmen took down the billboards Friday and excavation will begin at once for the four-story office and store building which is to be erected on that corner. The property was bought some time ago from J. F. Coad by a syndicate headed by W. H. Thomas.

F. G. Urian's Family Comes to Him—F. G. Urian, who has been in ill-health for a long time and who is a patient in the Clarkson hospital, was somewhat better Friday afternoon. His daughter, Mrs. Dillon of New York City and Mrs. M. D. Baker of Tilden, Neb., are in constant attendance at the hospital. Another daughter, Mrs. C. A. Hunter of Portland, Ore., and a son, Urian of Denver, have been notified of their parent's serious condition.

Police Get One Complaint, Anyway—Judge C. E. Fields, secretary of the Progressive Retail Liquor league, has written a letter to Chief of Police Donahue, in which he congratulates the chief and the police department on the enforcement of the law "against licensed and unlicensed sellers who violate the law." Secretary Fields says his organization is "proud to obey the law, and we desire a strict and impartial enforcement. We stand ready to assist, and the members, individually and collectively, are at your command."

Remembrance for F. L. Brown—F. L. Brown, for a good many years bookkeeper for the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company, was surprised by his fellow employees on the eve of his departure for his new fruit farm at Arcadia, Tex. When the employees had returned from lunch Friday noon they gathered together and with R. Leusser, assistant general manager of the company, as their spokesman, presented Mr. Brown with a beautiful scarf pin and $20 in gold. Mr. Brown also has been tiler for the local lodge of Elks.

Runaway Horse in Collision—Sixteenth street between Douglas and Davenport streets was the scene of a somewhat exciting incident. A horse and wagon dashed around the northwest corner of Douglas street and although several attempts were made to stop the runaway they were ineffectual. The animal went on until it collided with the horse and wagon of Sam Risenman, standing in front of his furniture store, 221 North Sixteenth. The shafts of each wagon were smashed, but the animal escaped injury. The runaway belonged to John Peter, expressman, 230 North Fourteenth street.

The successful medicines are those that act nature. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan.

The Parisian Cloak Co., 113 So. 16th, will sell Saturday over 300 women's coats worth up to $25.00 for $5.98. See their advertisement on Page 3.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Joe Mik, station master at the Burlington station, has gone to St. Louis in a matter pertaining to the settlement of the estate of his father.

C. E. Spens, general freight agent of the Burlington route, is at Lincoln, testifying before the Interstate Commerce commission. Omaha grain merchants filed a complaint purporting to show that towns on the Union Pacific and Burlington railroads in the southeastern part of the state are favored by a rate to Kansas City.

SPENS MAY GO TO CHICAGO

Slated to Succeed Crosby, if He Goes to the B. & O.

LATTER MOVE SEEMS PROBABLE

Omaha Man, in That Case, Would Be Head of the Freight Department of the Burlington System.

George H. Crosby may follow D. Willard from Chicago to the Baltimore & Ohio. If he does, Conrad E. Spens may follow Mr. Crosby from Omaha to Chicago.

There is a rumor in railroad circles that Mr. Crosby, now freight manager of the Burlington in Chicago, may be called by Mr. Willard to the Baltimore & Ohio to take charge of its freight traffic. Mr. Willard only recently went from the Burlington to the presidency of the eastern road, and Mr. Crosby, it is understood, stands very high in the estimation of President Willard. This rumor further says that if Mr. Crosby does go east Mr. Spens, general freight agent of the Burlington in Omaha, will fall into Mr. Crosby's position in Chicago.

Mr. Spens came to Omaha when Mr. Crosby left to take Mr. Willard's place at the head of the freight department of the Burlington. Mr. Spens stands high with the powers that be of the Burlington. He is regarded as next in line of succession to Mr. Crosby.

Mr. Spens is a young man, quite young for his position, very popular in social circles as well as business in Omaha. He is also newly married.

FLOORWALKER WALSH GONE

His Father Asks Police to Find Him and Walk Him Back Home.

J. C. Walsh, 504 North Twenty-fifth street, has requested the assistance of the police department to discover the whereabouts of his son, M. H. Walsh, who left his home January 22.

Walsh, who is 32 and married, having lived with his wife and baby at his father's residence, 221 North Sixteenth, Monday, but he has not been at home since. By occupation he is a floor walker. He is 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighs 135 pounds, is smooth of face, with dark complexion, black hair and black eyes. When last seen he was wearing a blue serge suit, white vest, black rain coat and black derby hat.

BUILDING NEW CAR LINE

Construction of Extension of West L Street Line in South Omaha Begins.

Construction of the West L street car line extension in South Omaha was begun by the street railway company Saturday morning.

The extended line will run from Twenty-fourth and O streets to Thirty-sixth and L streets, through the Union stock yards. The track work has commenced at Twenty-fifth and streets, where a gang is laboriously tearing up the frozen pavement.

The decision to build the extension was reached October last, after many long discussions and much controversy.

SENSATIONAL SALE SATURDAY

Of Over 300 Women's Coats Worth Up to $25 for $5.98.

The Parisian Cloak Co., 113 South Sixteenth St., announces, on Page 3, that they will start at 9:30 Saturday the most sensational sale of women's coats that was ever held by any store in Omaha.

In the sale there are over 300 black and colored broadcloth coats, novelty mixtures and covert coats, suitable for spring wear, all worth up to $25.00, for $5.98.

After actual, critical comparison, no sales held about town this season have offered blues in women's wearables to equal this. Every economical woman in Omaha owes herself the duty to attend the sale and the women who already know what a Parisian sale means need no invitation, for they surely will attend and be there early.

At the Theaters

"The Prince of Tonight" at the Boyd.

A musical comedy in three acts; book by Howard; produced by Mort H. Singer under the direction of George Marion. The cast: Lord Sylvester.....Arthur Aylesworth. Helen, sweetheart in prince's vision.....Laura Castle. The old gardener.....Lionel. Tommy Channon.....Joseph Herbert, Jr. Hotel messenger.....Frank Shaw. Bonnie Stuart.....Viola Hopkins. Mrs. Daniel Stuart.....Margaret McBride. Daniel Stuart, owner of the Virginia.....Lithia Water company.....John C. Leach. Envoy in the suite of the mythical Prince of Lunitania.....Jack Evans. Life saver.....Malcolm Owen. Manager "The Breakers".....Edward Beck. Jim Southerland, later Prince of Lunitania.....Henry Woodruff. Virginia Stuart.....Ruth Peebles. "The Prince of Tonight" is a musical comedy study in flirtation, with Henry Woodruff, debonair and goodlooking in degree far beyond the ordinary run of men, cast as the chief actor in the taming of a coquette. She succumbs, but perchance she did not really have a fair chance. The joint authors, believing perhaps that one endowed even as Woodruff might not turn the trick, have rung in a little magic to help him out. Invested him for one act with the glamour of princely title and trappings, and for good measure thrown in a little tropical moonlight. Could the most heartless jilted jade who ever scorned honest suitors withstand such combination?

In act I the girl plays with and laughs at the down-on-his-luck suitor. In act II she woos him and he is obdurate until the final curtain. Act III is simply a sort of musical comedy blues-you-my-child. So much for the theme. Its elaboration has permitted the working up of a number of handsome stage pictures in which added loveliness is gained by employing pretty young women and clean-cut appearing youths to help fill in the details. The first and last scenes are at Palm Beach, with surfing ocean at one side and rows of palms before it.

Without declaring that Mr. Woodruff belongs in musical comedy rather than in anything else, it may be asserted that "A Prince of Tonight" is a good deal better vehicle for him than "Brown of Harvard," or other specimens of similar insanity. That Mr. Woodruff succeeded in pleasing his audience last night is considerable of a compliment to him, for he was gravely handicapped not only by a cold, which hurt his singing, and his speaking voice also, but he was feeling generally unwell. That he played at all was fairly heroic in the circumstances. Those who know the song, "Tonight Will Never Come Again," which closes the second act of the entertainment, will feel genuine regret that Mr. Woodruff was forced to cut this, for it is far and away the loveliest gem in the score and it is wonderfully good music for Mr. Joseph E. Howard.

Mr. Howard, it should be added, is remarkably less reminiscent in this than in previous offerings of his. Of the songs, the "You're a Dear Old World After All" scored the greatest popularity. In the case of "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," familiarity seems to have begot something of its usual progeny.

The company is an able one. Next to the star, Viola Hopkins, in a soubrette role, and John O. Leach, in a comedy one, won the warmest favor of spectators. Miss Ruth Peebles is the coquette. She is something of an actress and the possessor of a sweet and well trained soprano voice.

"The Prince of Tonight" will run through Saturday night, with the usual matinee.

The Parisian Cloak Co., 113 So. 16th, will sell Saturday over 300 women's coats worth up to $25.00 for $5.98. See their advertisement on Page 3.

ONE TAILOR FOR 15,000

Al Dresher Has Clothed More Discriminating Men Than Any Other Omaha Tailor.

NEW STYLES ARE NOW IN

"Yes, it is a fact that I have made suits and overcoats to the individual measure of fully 15,000 Omaha citizens within the last ten years."

"My experience in the tailoring business led me to believe that there were thousands of men who would wear tailored-to-order clothes instead of unsatisfactory ready-made clothing if they could get the very best quality in the former at prices ranging from $30 to $50, and my large business proves the correctness of my judgment."

"Men for whom I made clothes for the first time were so satisfied with my methods of tailoring that they have been steady customers, and have also told their friends. This has produced a constant growth of trade, which has made it necessary to more than double my floor space, and a well trained organization to give the most thorough attention to the needs of each customer."

An inspection of Mr. Dresher's new, spring stock indicates clearly the fact that in shades, styles and quality of fabric, he offers particular dressers the largest and most attractive assortment for their consideration to be found in all Omaha. Additional to this is the further fact that there is something snappy, strong and distinctive about Dresher clothes that makes them desired above all others.
